Faculty Position

Department of Biblical and Theological Studies

Providence Theological Seminary wishes to welcome to our faculty a creative and productive scholar, teacher, and administrator within the Biblical and Theological Studies Department. The individual will have completed a Ph.D. in Biblical Studies (New Testament), with the ability to teach both introductory and upper level classes in New Testament and related subjects, including Biblical Greek, Biblical Hebrew. Expertise in hermeneutics is also highly desirable. The successful candidate will have pastoral experience, or demonstrable engagement in the life and ministry of the church. The position is full-time and rank open. Rank and salary will be determined by qualifications and experience. The candidate will also contribute research and scholarships, service to the school, service to their profession, religious communities and other contexts.

Providence Theological Seminary is an evangelical institution whose purpose is to serve the Church by preparing and supporting leaders, developing resources, and facilitating theological reflection. The Seminary is both evangelical and interdenominational and offers certificates, masters and doctoral level programs in traditional classroom format, modular courses, and through online education. Graduate programs focus on preparing students for Church, counselling, educational, global and academic ministries. Providence's mission is to be a Christian academic community in the evangelical tradition that teaches people to grow in knowledge and character for leadership and service. Consequently, we seek a professor-scholar-practitioner who desires to study, teach and learn with an attitude of free and open inquiry in an atmosphere of mutual respect and support.

If you are interested in joining a dynamic, contemporary and relevant team of scholars and practitioners to grow with and contribute to, then you should submit your CV to:
